And if you want to send a postcard or something, we can do that too. We are Communications diverse PO Box 1277, Collingwood 3066 and remember any opinions on this program are my own possible content warning for today. May do need to touch on mention of transphobia, which has been happening around the world and well perhaps bracing herself for more of it again, so,

If you do need to get some support rainbow door, is there on 1, 800 729 367, or Q life around so called Australia, 1800 184527 and well the reason it could be a content warning because, as I've half an hour ago, we are now officially an election mode as opposed to the unofficial one that's been going for most of this calendar year. Scott Morrison went off to government house.

Have tea and scones with his, the governor-general ship and has now called the election as it 11:30, May 21st. So, let's hope we can have both a happy. Happy Hobbit day. I had a hobbit Day on May the 17th and well, obviously, now we're an election mode. Where 3C are operating under broadcast guidelines. So, I certainly won't be making any direct comment on which party to vote for. And look, if you're a few things, let's dive into it first. This is a show covering pan issues the show preceding Us by the way, which I always do. Sometimes, forget to mention out of the blue a show that dives deep for the Marine use as they always do every Sunday morning from 11:30 through till noon. And well, we're covering queer issues and want to get some things underway here. If you're a queer candidate of any party, we'd love to hear from you. We are under a broadcasting laws, have to keep track of the amount of

When we give to each party or candidate to make sure that there's a fair range. So if you queer candidate, know of one love to have a chat with you will be will be firm but fair as the saying goes regardless of which party you're from and love to hear from you, but also love to hear from queer and allies. What issues do you think from a queer perspective? We need to be covering. I'm not going to claim to be a broad-ranging electoral analyst and I'm well aware that you know, queer.

I might be pushed down the ladder where because people will be debating things like climate change. How well has the government handled covid? The corner, me and foreign policy things that will probably come up more but this show gives the Grassroots a voice. So you are the Grassroots. You are the you're the voice. And we do understand that probably every apology to John Farnham, but seriously,

Yeah, we'd love to hear from you. So I'm going to be trying to cover a range of issues. If I don't get candidates on what are things or things, what we need and we'll gosh knows there's a lot that you could cover so but let's get. I'll do a bit of a brainstorm obviously, you know, making sure that we end or minimize religious exemptions particularly for all students. And all teachers is really Really important. That's one that's been in the news in the last few months. But also I think that can also be a little reactive and I think it's time we started putting our agendas out, their progress proactively. I feel a bit frustrated that at times, we have allowed ourselves to become reactive and let other people, you know, sort of take over the agenda. So what if we were

Please analyze where the benign dictators, what would we want? Well, you know, overall, there's lots of things are, perhaps we need some national anti vilification, Laura mean, in the past. I have tended to shy away from it, thinking education can help and we certainly need National Education campaigns for the groups that are, you know, sort of have progressed less in our Rainbow by trans intersects Ace to name but a few but

Well, I think that education. You're going to get about 2/3. 3/4 people go. Oh, I didn't know that final. I'm happy to review things and then it gets harder as you go to the in inverted commas, other end reviews, other end of the Viewpoint spectrum. And that's where you need the sort of anti vilification laws. So that could be one that affects all of us, but then we, the thing that I think has happened since 2017 and the dreaded postal survey is that Scripts as ass. I have fallen behind groups, like from my own sense of self bi and trans and for others intersex and Ace. Ace, Ace being asexual /, a romantic, those who have little too low, sexual attraction being asexual. Those who have little too low romantic attraction, being a romantic and user obvious, Melbourne, joke, that's not a romantic, but you can be aromatic and a romantic if you drink coffee. Anyway, seriously, so these are the things we'd love to hear about. What about other issues?

As we know we've had some success here in the wacky, tram city and state of Victoria with an lgbtiq. Commissioner. But can we take that and build on it further at a federal level? How do we make sure that we get the best person and not a political hack from any party and - I say any? So these is lots of the issues that we need to start thinking about going to cover them in depth with people now that the election is called.

Had a couple of messages come in as I think we need the Pooh once called them. Well, let's have a look at them couple in from Mel on the emails out of the pan 855 at gmail.com and things were happening there. Mel has come up and said the election has begun perfect time with the crew.

Amperi starting here in Melbourne. Now, is it a race Force Como Sally? Well, look, it's a race for lots of people Mel, you know, 41 days of racing so to speak. But where are we racing? To is another question? And your second question is, would I care to predict the election result or any particular results? Not in a squillion years, Mel? Not even, you know, even if you put ask me only only put a dollar on it.

I think that people have learnt from last time where the opinion polls had this labor landslides and they turned out to be wrong. Now, you know, yes, there could be some different circumstances this time, but the problem we now have is that in the old days you could use a database of landline phones and get a random sample. Can't do that so much anymore as landlines are decreasing in number and we've got more mobiles. And the thing is the other thing is Mel that and everyone that there's just

So many variations across seats now. It's almost like there's this flexible strategy that know in a political way, targets particular seats, the Sunday age. This morning has a story that people. Now the politicians aren't visiting Victoria apart from the marginal seat of Chisholm and they're focusing on other marginal seats. So there's going to be variations around States and territories. It's going to be variations across seats. I doubt. It will be uniform, swing, who knows. I really notice.

Seriously, I just would not want to predict a result. It's certainly a rates and I think, as I say, this leads to your back to your other question, it's a very interesting race. That is so variable. I mean, we have the, you know, sort of situation of a very sent seems, you know, sort of careful, you know, sort of the right balance in terms of the voices for candidates who have a lot of backing who have

Structure behind them. So they're not just red sort of rag, tagging type of stuff, which come times. You know, it's hard going being an independent without any sort of real backing financially or structurally. So they've got, you know, sort of resources. They can all turn to sort of like the head office the branches. If you like, you know, people are not falling for petting, you know, there is obviously dissatisfaction out there in terms of Fan Scott Morrison, but has Alban easy? But look, I'm not a political analyst and Peter's, just messaged in Anthony. Green has just appeared on the ABC. You know, it's an election. Now, I'd agree with that. Yeah, Anthony, he's the man. I don't think he's a pan, but he could be seriously. So lots going on. Yeah, so it's going to be interesting times and the other message.

And we live in a multicultural City here in Melbourne. And I only acknowledging our own. Privileges are step in the right direction, along with education. I'd love more diversity in queer spaces, as there is a hierarchy in the community. White certainly agree with that and coming back closer to home. I personally, in relation to, this have become a bit concerned likely that there's an unofficial and this is my word cartel of the larger. Queer organizations who are willfully and Actively pushing out some of the smaller ones. Now, obviously, I'm not going to name names, but a lot of people are feeling that and there's a feeling that some, there's a parallel here that we think of our politicians and perhaps some parties more than others being out of touch with the Grassroots and how they're thinking particularly on the issues that affect us as quiz. Unfortunately. It's a fair call to say that some of our, you know, sort of queer organizations aren't keeping up to date. I heard of a lot.

Large query. So called lgbti organization that offers diversity education that offered the definition of by which is an attraction to both men and women which is no no by purse. The plus person. I know would accept that definition because it arises non-binary people in the people attracted to them if they can't get the 101, right? How are they going to support us? There's also concerns that some of our political, some of our LGBT organizations are not

Politically neutral enough or politically non-aligned, might be a better word. I've heard some concerns that are prominent. Queer, activists activists not in Parliament at this time, is heavily aligned with one political party and therefore, will not criticize that party, possibly hoping to get a plum job again, not naming names. So we have to make sure we keep our own backyard as clean as possible. And now, I've spoken many times on this program about lateral.

Hostility well, now, what are we going to do about that? That's our job to clean up, and we can't sweep it under a rock and we can't fall for this all. We have to appear to be United sort of stuff. But we also, you know, sort of have to make sure that we are proactive. It could be hard to get, queer issues, onto the, the broader agenda. We're going to have might have to be targeted in our social media, might have to work with others, find allies elsewhere, who are interested in Social.

Justice and go from there. So all sorts of things to consider love your thoughts Mel and Hoffler, I should say messaging me but, you know, plenty of listeners out there and we all want to hear from you, all what things will are happening, what matters to you. So let's go through those means of Technology. Again. 6, 1. 4 5 6. 7 5, 1 2, 1, 5, 4, S.

Sms tweet at Sal gold said, so, or on Instagram, and that's the bottom line and Facebook out of the pan 855 am Melbourne and my page, Sally, golden am. 3cr 855 am 3cr Digital 3cr Dot org dot r u3 c, our on-demand, out of the pan with Sally first broadcasting noon, through one every Sunday afternoon, and with a frog in the throat, sometimes, that's right. Live radio for you, people of all genders. Thanks for your company and pride of the messages, we heard from the hooted gurus are cast building a castle in the air. Well, people are of all political parties and ideologies.

On one build their castle in the are hoping to have the voters sort of chip in with the building and have it finished in 41 days time. All sorts of things happening. Peterhof. The sorry has come in with a very interesting question. And statement, quote. I was in an Uber the other day and an older male driver late 50s was listening to the Fox News from the USA. Where are people getting their news from these days? Now, this is an interesting question and it Taps into something.

And I've had a very lovely few days. I finally, after 15 months got up to see family of origin on the Gold Coast foam from Wednesday evening, through two yesterday evening, lovely time. And now the Gold Coast in to some extent is a place where there's a lot of retirees older people and it got me thinking that perhaps in days gone by people assumed that everyone tried to be as honest as possible. And, of course, now, I just don't think that's the case.

Face anymore. And so people possibly believe the fox news's and the Australian and won't question that they think people genuinely believe what they say. Now, during the week. We heard allegations repeat allegations that of Branch stacking where people claimed, they were a moderate and got people in to support them. They're actually all sort of more socially conservative in the liberal party. Now, that's call me old-fashioned. Call me now, fuddy-duddy or something called me a cab and send me home, but

That's lying. Gee. It's a breach of one of the Christian Ten Commandments and apparently a so a so-called Christian did that. Hmm, not that it ever happened. So I think there's a factor there. The people listen to news thinking. Oh, well, you know, I can work out, you know, to how to agree to disagree, but there's plenty of sort of people who will put on certain commercial radio presenters you put on emotionally manipulative, snarky voices. I

One commercial radio presented during the postal survey, who if he was talking about, the no campaign would just say in a neutral tone of voice would say, the no campaign, but then, if talking about the yes camp and would say, campaign would say the gay Lobby, the gay crowd, which is, you know, that sort of subtlety can often people can be sort of hooked in by that. So I think we've got issues here and we need a wide range of sources and it's a worry, which I'm going to lead into the topic that I wanted to talk about.

Out awful is always also said, there's a state of cannibalism in the New South Wales rules. According to the ABC, some candidates not ready to campaign. Well, you know, what was it pop? Will eat itself. Well, New South Wales liberals, allegedly eating themselves certainly not ready to campaign with the high court challenges only cleared two days ago, and that's a reasonable opinion. But what I wanted to talk about, I feel like I need to send solidarity to our trans siblings around the world. It's been a very Tough couple of weeks in the United Kingdom, with Boris, Baza Johnson. I'm Scott Mosier Morrison. Know, Scott bother Johnson Boris, Boris Johnson this with a probably very similar twins separated, at Birth. Seriously, and this is where we raise the content node announcing reneging on a pair, a promise to ban conversion practice, and then changing his mind. But only for sexual orientation and not gender identity. And then a prime, a prime minister of

Of the UK making highly transphobic statements about single single-sex spaces and so on. And of course, it's the same which tactic that we saw in February here in Australia with the religious discrimination bill seems that well now at least for another 41 days, that's off the table with Parliament dissolve, but we've got to make sure that we don't bring that back and it's cute. I'll raise the content node here. There's been huge.

Yeah, sort of spike in trans people calling counseling services in the UK, according to an article that I got in the guardian last night. And that's really, really disconcerting. That that's the case. And it's, of course, it was similar here during the postal survey for all of lgbtiq communities. Now, it's disgusting that people try to say things that I my opinion or transphobic get any time.

And yes, often it comes from the same for sources and they're loud. And shrill elements. And I'm just very clearly say elements of religion, elements of politics elements of media, elements of self-described, radical feminists, and their voices aloud, and Trill 14, and that's the problem I have because I honestly believe the vast majority of humans are decent and do and want to do the right thing and we'll listen hooray, but it hurts and so,

I feel very strongly for my trans siblings in the UK might have to see if I can track someone down to see if they're willing to have a chat and see what somehow we can be allies. I mean, we've got obviously the next 41 days very critical for Australia. Let's yeah, I think it's a fair comment. It's not electoral opinion or telling anyone how to vote, but the last nine years of coalition government at a national level in this country. Haven't been particularly superb for lgbtiq.

20 plus people. And I think a lot of us might be at breaking point of the point. Thought of another 3 years. That's not to say how we should vote, because labor didn't exactly stand up strongly enough for Trans people during the religious discrimination Bill debate. And this is the disadvantage of their small Target approach. And now look at least row and leopards during the week. We commented on this last week developments occurred. And you can also hear an excellent interview with Ricky.

Spencer on Mike, we're colleagues program in your face James the podcasts up for that. Which first is 4:56 Friday afternoon Australian eastern time and we're facing there is concern that trans issues is being could be part of this camp this campaign that would be horrendous and you know, the greens have now apologized for Rowan leopards sort of response for run row and leopards comments and the hurt that has been caused. And this seems to be a real concern, but we also have to look closer to home that said this before. I'll say it again. Trans people did not get enough support, during from the, some of our own cisgender gay and lesbian Advocates not by I'm declaring anybody.

Is the bike Community has been overwhelmingly supportive of the trans community in my time and continues to be so, and we've got lots of research in Australia. Now, showing a huge overlap of the bi plus and trans and gender diverse communities, which I've always said make sense. If you buy you just say, will genders. Not the first thing you look for in a partner and trans people have to question, gender to be ourselves into internally. So now this is a huge issue and we really that also on

On in your face on Friday. James spoke with the fabulous, Dino Curie, and he said, he's noticed a lot of support at the Grassroots for Trans siblings this time. So now, we are going to have to make sure that we get the right standing up and I'm worried that some of our, as I said, if you know, early in the first segment, some of our larger lgbtiq organizations too quick to get to use the obvious pun into bed and make well gay or straight marriages with political parties who don't have great.

Chords on supporting the transcommunity bells come in with some more comments. And yes, some people not exalt acknowledging their own Privileges and careerism being some of those large organizations. Yes, Mel's also set a younger generation ignoring traditional media. So, hopeless has a point there. We live in our own Bubbles and use isn't going to be credible. Yeah. Well, I'm agree with you on younger jet. I'd from what I know said, the fifty six and a half year old on younger.

Nations. Now I find that, you know, they are there's that sense of Savvy and not taking No Nonsense from nobody, which is great but they're sort of whilst they're voting. They're not in power as yet have to fix that. And Mel's also sit here here Sally privilege and unconscious bias. Trump's decency, Even in our Progressive Community. Well, you can say that again, so email me again, not only kidding. So yes.

Big issues for us to consider there and we need to make sure that everyone gets a voice and Mel's also come inspect a nasty campaign off. Gosh. Yes. I've been bracing myself on all fronts. Not just rainbow issues by a long way. I mean, we've seen that already. It's just been a whole lot of mudslinging very little real debate on issues, a lot of cliches and phrases. All right, let's have a breather and let's have something much nicer. Of course, now is time for the part of our ongoing.

So not going to be having Martin from castlemaine Pride on the show today, but see if we can sort that out for next.

Week, which reminds me while. I think of it. We are coming up to a lot of the various or, and if not are already in various seasons in no particular order. I just had a message at, I had a message at random. I was at a little cafe called random. No, not that sort of random. But actually, no pun intended at this work. This Ramadan, Bridge meals is organizing weekly iftar for Igbtqa+ Muslims and those from Muslim.

Backgrounds join for an evening of togetherness laughter and reflection. You can email Bridge meals Melbourne or one word at gmail.com and for more information. So, that's really cool. And of course, coming up this week, coming up to Easter for those whose Christian faith is important to them. And for someone like myself of Jewish background coming out for Passover, and that begins in this,

By the 15th in the evening and ends on Saturday the 23rd. So lots, if your faith is important to you regardless of your sexuality or gender. I hope it is a time of meaning for you. And the other thing, of course, is, you know, the roads could be back to being busy for the first Easter in three years. Please take care out there with your pedestrian cyclist vehicle vehicular driver or any any road user of any sort.

It just sort of be big, get back to the fact that this could be a busy time again and just be aware. That that's the go. What else is going on? Yes, and if you are parting of any sort, you could be partying of course, do it covid safe and and safe sex and follow rules of consent and things like that. No means no enthusiastic. Yes has mean yes. And maybes mean no,

Sorts of things are just a few, which need to be considered. What else is going on? There's lots going on. Mel's had a message to me, which just wanting to bring back up. Whereby to wit Mel, says that her mum is not reading the age anymore. Well, that was something I wanted to touch on this week, and I'm

Becoming a bit of a cranky pants with. Uh, I would have to say now. They really are becoming Murdock like in their transphobia, one columnist in particular who just seems to be trying to bait us. And thankfully trans people will not including myself. I had this situation come up in February where they wanted in an opinion piece. That was in the age. I was told you, we need you to respond to this this and this from the other side. And so, will you want my opinions sod off know?

And so frankly I didn't use those words, some reason I tapped into my British born Dead, who would have said, sod off. But anyway, I don't think this is again. We want to get our issues on the agenda. I'm sick of being reactive sick of feeling like we're constantly, ask you having to fight back from what we don't want. Well, we have to get that on the board and I think one thing that will be very important is trans people leading trans issues. There's within the transcommunity.

He's increasing grumpiness that we're not being spoken for directly and adequately. And so I think that there needs to be a movement towards more trans individuals, trans specific organizations and family organizations representing trans because we've been pushed down the list by perhaps people who are could be careerist or perhaps have their own internalized prejudices and unconscious biases awful.

Come in. Will this be a pun for election? For me? Not in a million years. There may be bias because I'm buying I've got an ass. There we go. See there's a pun for you. So it's sort of we need to make sure that we're chipping in here and making sure that we get, you know, the results that we want and they'll be surveys release soon on. You know, what people want is their lgbtiq.

U+ priorities. There will be interesting to see how that goes. Yes, what else is happening? Yeah, look the age now, look there, as I say their piece this week, was just absolutely. So, it's getting ridiculous. They really are a sort of Murdock light and that's really not very helpful for anyone when that happens now.

The thumb hopeful has come in and said since the Takeover it's gone, downhill wide, agree with that Costello media. Gee, I wonder if there's any coincidence, but a very, very, very poor situation. And you know, it does seem to be trying to Echo. The situations are saying the UK and other countries and also gain solidarity to lgbtiq people to end with

With lgbtiq people in Ukraine, including some trans women who can't change their birth certificates. And therefore, Now sort of, you know, sort of a being forced to stay in Ukraine, rather than get out and hopefully sent me the link to the column that got a trans people's irritation up during the week and I'm not going to mention the name all the arguments now.

And let's just say it was published on the 6th of April. You can people can find it for themselves, but be warned. It's full of generalization stated as fact. Well, I've been catching up over the last few months, dug out the old managed to reconnect and get the right connections going. So that I could play some vinyl which is only ever been released on vinyl and have a listen to it again.

And I found this subtract from a classic bluegrass album apropos of nothing from 1975. And this one is just amazing. So get your hats out, be sensitive, new age. People from the bush, and let's have a listen to a track from The 1975 classic bluegrass album old. And in the way and here is a track called the hobo song. 3, C R8.

Five, am 3cr digital 3cr dot-org, w3c are

He was a war hero.

Until so long.

Daddy.

So about a voice in our own country. We got a reason to screaming out. Where's our voice in this country, you know, not that I want to be a part of the Constitution for that. That's why free CR is so important to me and this community. Here. We've got a voice but it's not. Now we're entire into a bigger voice than what we've got. But it's all about having a voice. It's G, 23c are fiercely independent and Community Control.

Free CR 855 am 3ci Digital 3cr Dot org, dot U 3 CR on demand out of the pan with Sally, just about out of time, but very quickly following up on the ages opinion piece. Junkie, who do good. Media have been have, got put an article in on this and it's talks about how number of trans people have refused to write for them. Well, after the age race Saturday, H ran Pace a or a version of the Saturday. I drown a piece on trans issues with they didn't tell me they were going to have radical feminist Viewpoint sin. They then came to me for an opinion piece earlier in February and I said, and they wanted me to respond to some of the radical feminist allegations to which I said no, you want my opinions, you get my opinions, trans people say, what the issues are not religion. Not politics, not media and not radical feminists. Interestingly. They didn't approach me this time for a response to Julie.

As I go and that's public knowledge. Who is the author's article and that's the only time I'm going to mention the name. Also going to say that I was approached by Julie's, a go free year ago to write an article on trans kids and it still hasn't been written and I feel very betrayed by what I see as dishonesty. So I'm going to I join the debates on the age and someone else Nevo's is in fabulous, trans non-binary Advocate, Julie lied to get interview with me.

Coax me into a false sense of security. So I agree with that Nevo. My I'm going to have to say my experience as a similar and this needs to get called out. This is unethical media. Yes, murder murder media, does it all the time but 49 media to do it as well is not acceptable and frankly. That's why we have stations like 3cr to call this rubbish out. So there it is.

Anyway, I better get way, Make Way for freedom of species because they come in at one and they are two quite the title of our closing track today. From Paul Kelly, featuring Kate Miller-Heidke bound to follow because that's the way the schedule is. Thanks for tuning in to out of the pan. I'm Sally Goldner. Catch you next week.
