It's noon if we're after 9:00 maybe we could not my area of expertise anyway. So what have we got on the show today? Lots of news to talk about and one that came my way. Just only in the last few hours, this hit my notice all that was published in the Guardian.

On worldwide on round Thursday afternoon. Australian eastern. Time is an article comparing attitudes to transgender people across 30 countries. And I just thought now this is of interest because when you know why, I don't really one sense. It shouldn't work, which we shouldn't have to do rankings but it can be something we can learn. Why are some countries? Progressing better than others? Maybe there's things. We could learn. I don't have to do some homework on this.

So access to a third gender affirming a and careful teenagers, the country that in terms of strongly or somewhat agree ranked, the highest is Thailand where it looks like around 70 one or two percent according to this graph in this article, which I will link in to the podcast. Pretty approving. And then at around the 60 percent mark is South Korea.

And Australia comes in on this list. I'm just trying to do the reverse can think seven, eight, nine ten. What about twenty first on this list of 30 countries? And we are just under the 60 percent mark, there's a round it's looking like about 15 percent who are sort of, not sure neutral and then there are around 22% in the agree, somewhat disagree, the worst three countries and this is

I think of note Great Britain, the US and Hungary are 28, 29 and 30 respectively, which is really, really interesting. I mean we're well aware sadly of what this program would perceive to be negative attitudes towards trans people on so many issues in Britain and the US. But the fact that they're down there with Hungary I think is Hungary being declared, you know, or my opinion obviously a far right-wing.

Ship, not very Democratic Britain in the US, the two leading Anglo-Saxon democracies, maybe not. But then you look at some of the the country that's fourth. Bottom on this particular question is Sweden, although not hugely bad, it's about 58 percent approve. But I think the fact that most of these that I'm looking at this, you've only got Hungary, who's below? 50 percent, agree, or strongly, agree that the Overall, regardless of the rankings, we can take out of this is that perhaps for all that. I know that and I'm trans remember to the bulldust that we here. That's as polite as I can say. It about ten minutes past midday on a Sunday, you fill in your own word at home for that eight-letter word. Dear listeners of all genders maybe it's just not biting but the thing is, of course we have to keep pushing our message across and if I've had a criticism. Not so Much of the transcommunity, but some of our so-called cisgender allies is that the runaway or don't give these people publicity. We do have to get the publicity. You just it's media 101. You talk about what we want to talk about. So yeah this survey was conducted in February and March this year, I'm just trying to see exactly who put this survey together and have to get more more information.

It. But there's lots of good questions in here. Should people have access to facilities matching, their gender identity Thailand? Again, the highest with around 78%, Australia, still around 20th, but with a ranking of around 58 percent. And once again, Poland, Great Britain and the U.S. down the bottom one Hungary. So it says something here, it's kind of interesting. Italy is second.

Based on this question, other countries that do well, the Netherlands, and Chile. So it'll be interesting to see what it is about those countries where by to wit they have sort of got such high rankings. So, I welcome your thoughts, on this listeners of all genders, why is it that some countries are ranking higher than the other? But there's also asked the question in your opinion, how much discrimination do trans people face in our?

Today, a great deal or fair amount and Portugal comes in. That's a step that people perceive that as the highest with about 80 or 3%. Or so saying that there's a lot and all the countries, see it is very high. But interestingly Germany, Japan and Switzerland? Don't. Now, that's interesting. I'm not sure if maybe it's better or maybe they're not aware of the issues, one doesn't know. We don't have that level of analysis here, but

A pretty useful article. So, welcome your thoughts. Why do you think you know these things are like they are but my question also is, what do we do? Because we want to get to a point where it's, in my opinion, where 100% of people support gender affirming care, and our access to the spaces that we, we know we need, despite all what I believe is the awfully stuff that is out there.

So I would welcome your thoughts on that. In the meantime, as the issues heat up. So to speak, let's have a track from Midnight Oil and this is from one of my favorite was originally on the very first Midnight Oil album way back in 1978. The South the eponymous album, there's your word for the day. Eponymous, meaning self-titled, apparently and this one is always the live version on the screaming Blue album from T2 and it's all blowing up. It's the powder works 3. CR 855 am 3 CR Digital 3, CR dot org dot a. You 3 CR on demand out of the pan with Sally.

I'll do that in first broadcasting. Nothing like a good broadcast. Got it right? Two, two. Two out of three ain't bad rest in peace. Meatloaf. So we just had from Midnight Oil, classic rock. Oh yeah. And

How to works the live version, which was recorded in 1982 at a concert at the Capital Theater and Sydney and ended up on the live album in 1992. Very, very awesome stuff and I'm spewing I didn't get to see them when they reformed last year. Probably their last ever tour. Yeah, get suppose can be a bit exhausting exhaust. The more exhausted exhausted or malt is my best French. So

Things happening all around the world on trans and one thing that happens this month is pride month which has very thoughts around the world. Some people say it's a bit corporate, some sites, northern hemisphere the you know they have a will take the non-binary approach. The glass can be half full or half empty as you choose and my thoughts, I mean if it gets people thinking reflecting talking on what we need, that's a good thing. But I think the other thing that came out of that sort of thirty Thirty One, Thirty Nation survey on trans is by and large. You've got a large majority of people everywhere who wanted to do the right thing and, you know, sort of, you know, in to use the other strong Australian, slang want, a fair go for people that I might all that sort of thing. So the question is, why are things stalling?

And it's a question that comes up a lot. Why can't the Albanese e-government say we support trans Australians as part of Australia, all of Australia, particularly? When even though he's facing massive pressure, Joe Biden has emerged during pride month with some reasonably solid statements and some measures including some funding to counter some of the issues such as queer, youth homelessness in the USA and

And one would like to think that and I mean, according to these surveys, we're sort of somewhere above the US in a lot of these questions. We'd like to think that, you know, we're a more fair-minded country. So what's going on? Why is it? There's this disconnect between the Australian federal government and most of what the community seems to be thinking on trans what they'll sort of.

Vaguely condemned Nazism, but they're not supporting trans people and that leaves trans people abandon. Now, one of our, I'll say, recurring listeners to this show. Not sure if you're at the daejeon, often comes in and says that. It's the government is scared of losing the ethnic vote. Now look, there could be some truth in that. I'd like to see if they're what the research is going on. Going on there. If anyone knows of any research in terms of Multicultural Australians and how they vote.

On what their thoughts are on lgbtiq, + issues compared to the whole country. We won't say compared to Anglo or anything else like that. That's not, that's not right, it's not right. Is it now? That was Andrew Peacock, may he rest in peace as well? Why are all my heroes? Don't anyone seriously? You know what? What what what is it is it that the powerful people in this system the elements of media and others are getting to the

And as well and they're not hearing from trans voices. I'm wondering when the last time someone from federal cabinet actually met with directly with a trans person. Now, I know there's been great work done by the Victorian Pride Lobby, declaring my that I'm a life member of the Victorian Pride Lobby particularly by Austin, who's been getting transpeople to meet with state federal or sorry? Alp Federal Alp members, who are in Victoria, so,

That is anyone any Victorian? I hope he senators and Victorian. I help people in the house of reps. That's just as distinctive course from State, Victorian library and peace who and let's be reasonable. Certainly, it's fair to say labor has a pretty good record at the state level on trans issues. Still, of course things to be done, but let's keep ticking them off the list. Not sure about what's going on so much in other states, or territories, and it's not for me as a Dorian to speak for that. Now I'd love to hear from trans people beyond the Murray and Beyond Border Town. So to speak as to, what's going on. What you know, is there sort of a fear of the trans issues. But why is there this communication divide and why can't trans people? It seems get to meet with will say, high-ranking ministers. When was the last time a trans person met with attorney? General Mark Dreyfuss or health minister?

Butler. It was just about a year ago that I'm just after the federal election assistant Health, Minister Jed canning was on the show saying, we're looking at trans health care, but they're saying now that they're only Consulting with health professionals and not trans people will we know all the little wrinkles has Daffy. Duck would have said as to, what needs to happen. So, it's a little disconcerting in my opinion, that there is this lack of inclusion in democracy for Trans people in particular.

Particular. And, you know, the one of the the pickups on this is that the few times prime minister Alban, easy comments on lgbtiq, i+ issues. He says it doesn't matter who you love well, that covers, you know, is probably aimed at lesbian and gay. It might buy defying without him realizing include by an ace, but I doubt, he knows what the by in a specific issues are. And of course, intersects issues as well, and want to come to intersects in the second half of the program because we do have some good news.

A this week who raised. So what do we do to fix this? Do we just keep bombarding. Alban easy. Do we know Badger him everywhere? He goes in public. When you going to talk to trans people, I'm brainstorming here but maybe we're gonna add to that. Just keep having trans people and trans Flags in front of him, but the questions to immerse ourselves. If media aren't going to do it, wire media push them on this. The only media that seem to question,

And probe this directly through from my memory is the group of Schwartz papers which includes the monthly in the Saturday paper. Now I don't necessarily say they're good or bad but they did raise this and try to get the issue rolling but it just seems that no one wants to know. So my opinion Houston, there is a problem. The question is, how do we fix it? And there's good things happening. Good things are Fort. We have seen the rainbow Angels emerge in there. Seems to be a Broad range of people wanting to take action against the far-right nonsense, but it would just take a little bit of assertive off from people in positions of influence to can not a condemned Nazism and fascism, but support trans people and I think we could nail it. So why are we having to do all the emotional labor, all the time in the trans and will say, truly Allied communities. So plenty to think about, all right,

Right. Let's have some more musica and here's one that I pulled out. Yeah, could say tongue in cheek, I might dedicate it to some extreme, right? People. It's a song from the Eagles. So lower Eagles full album of 2007. Afternoon. Thanks for your company. I'm Sally Gardner. I host a show covering pansexuals use pan meaning before a word meaning all-knowing. No boundaries of sex or gender and well certainly including all variations of sex characteristics with a good news story her. A most of all her aid though for people with variation of sex characteristics because during the week on Thursday, the 8th of June, the aced Australian Capital territory, parliament passed, some world first legislation to protect intersex rights and I just I just got to say, first and foremost, massive, congratulations to all the people variation of sex characteristics, who fought so long and hard for this Landmark, it's someone who's been through the Legislative ringer at times for Trans type of stuff in particular. It's not an easy thing to do, you know. It's your life. It's a lot of emotional labor, but I hope I can only hope that the joy that you must have felt as that bill passed through Parliament, the ACT legislative assembly during the week, perhaps ease some of the pain. It's this an ABC article on this. That is Australian Broadcasting.

Commission article says act chief, minister Andrew barking became teary when he introduced the bill, a few months ago on Thursday as the bill internationally significant reform passed, which it is. He also choked back tears so absolutely amazing. And well done to so many people, I've got to give it. I know lots of people have worked out but worked on this so hard. But two longtime friend Tony briefer.

Counselor for the city of Hobson's by in my dear friend. And dare I say also wrestling fan. Cody Smith I'm in the act. This is just I just I just wish you every Joy at this moment. And more importantly, the joy for future generations of infants, born with variation of sex characteristics who will go through one would hope far less pain. Maybe none at all for being who they are, because the surgeries will not be as automatic.

And it's just been absolutely amazing to have this go through on, trying to find and I know it is somewhere in my records. The press release media release from intersex, human rights Australia that was put out on the day and I will locate that as we talk which is just amazing here. Family found it live radio listings of all genders.

And so many people quoted in here, Morgan Carpenter, who's executive director of intersex, human rights, Australia, formally organization, intersects Internationale Australian got to say it or but seriously Morgan says a wonderful and transformative moment. And it promises to ensure that we maximally respect diverse values of people with intersex. Variations to minimize early, interventions may be interventions, could have been it.

Inverted commas there. And the thing that Mormon says, and rightly so is Bill, Laurie would say not the bill directs intersects to my knowledge. This is a model for other jurisdictions and we call on other states and territories to adopt similar reforms. Well certainly there's no reason why Victoria can't get on with this. Given the Parliamentary situation here tasmania's, you know, I think would be also supportive. There's lots of work done there but when you consider that labor has a huge majority

In Western Australia. And there's a new premier over there, who I'm beginning to think might be a little more willing to do. Look at lgbtiq+ issues. You know, there's a queue of states that can get this done and territories, and no reason really, why none of them can't because it's not really a political issue as such, Bonnie, heart, fabulous, persons, well, who's the mental health worker? And Deputy executive director of ihra. It says it.

It's a cause for celebration a framework where parents of children with intersex variations in the ACT can trust that the healthcare decisions they make on behalf of their child, a guided by the best available evidence supported by an independent panel of experts and psychosocial and peer support. Yay listen to people with lived expertise. What a good idea but this is going to do. It Gabriel Philippi a camber resonant. Biological Anthropologist Health, Ira Health projects officer, and a member

The ICT rainbow administer advisory Council and also supportive and the bill started conversations in families, work places in the community about treatment of people with variation in sex characteristics. Cody, Smith are going. Just I think that's a big gold belt there. Cody, if I can just be a little in self-indulgent in saying that to you a lot to celebrate today, there will never be another time where a jurisdiction is the first in Australia to Pass laws that protect intersex children yet. What a moment I'm with you on that. Cody brings me immense, joy and peace to know that it happened in my hometown. This is Cody speaking.

The moment we're positive change has been demonstrated a challenge to other states and territories. Clear, this can be done. When will you step up to protect children against harm and Trauma? And, you know, Cody says we celebrate today, and there's more to be done tomorrow and then this one what I want.

This next Generation, even 26 kids to know you at your replaceable. You are perfect as you are you deserve celebration? We have fought for you because we love you. This is better than what has come before and also Mimi Hall whose project intersect project coordinator at agenda, agenda and talks about mixed feelings and that's perfectly. Understandable, you know, when you get changed, you think? Well, if it had happened earlier, other people wouldn't have had to go through so much pain, but it is really important.

Important that we stop and celebrate this in a someone who is endo sex. I can only just wish have a total compersion in Wishing people, have a variation of sex characteristics. Every Joy at this hope that not only Australian States and territories and Australian Federal Government Act where they can. But maybe other countries can take this legislation, adapt to their legislative models and go a bit further as well. So it's a big win and I think with from the context within lgbtiq a plus,

They are sometimes quite frequently at times as a bi and trans person I felt Left Behind ignored not heard not seen hope very much that this gives intersex people. And when you, when you get a bi or trans specific moment, it changes that way. I hope this does parallel for people of intersex experience and just you know, take as Chris Jericho would have said, drink it in, you know. Absolutely so much deserve every Moment of it. And sometimes you got to keep going, which I think I'll pause there and lead into our next track which well, yeah, it just fits perfectly in so many ways. She is Caitlin Harnett and the Pony boys, and this is from their first album late-night Essentials new singles are now out from their second album and I'll come back and tell you about a gig of theirs, which is on next Friday here in

You.

Absolutely tune into 3 CR, any time and of course next weekend we've got radiothon and lots of shows all across the weekend will be asking for your support including out of the pan. I'm you heard a blurb on the fact that you can any donation to 3 CR of two dollars or more is tax-deductible. Hello Jim Chalmers. Nice of you to be tuning in with us today. Thank you so much for allowing the tax

See, it's not as a friend of mine says it's nice to be nice and so yes, please support us in all seriousness because we need your support because you get to hear different range of opinions than what you might have. Usually here on Commercial radio. You get to hear great music like Caitlin Harned and the Pony boys and don't you give up on me? No you got to keep persisting like people would sex experience did

And you can see Caitlyn Harnett at the curtain here in in a Melbourne next Friday. The 16th of June that's going to be. I wish I could I can't get to it and almost spewing as they used to say even cowgirls cry single to it. But hopefully they'll be they'll be back but what a lineup Queenie fabulous Kick-Ass woman local musician. Who's going places in my opinion? Got to play sort of on the at the apra awards as people were arriving as

I heard it that's going to be pretty big and Tamara and the dreams as well. So that's a triple threat as they would say in wrestling terms. And if you're in Bacchus Marsh, next Saturday, make sure you go and see Mayhem Pros sin. That could be a triple threat of a different sort, seriously, Lots coming up. There's just so much going on. It's I feel like, Melbourne and surrounds Regional are back to our best, musically entertainmentwise, it just seems like it's all happening on. I mean, in a gig like

Like that is just only one indicator and a great venue like the curtain in a Melbourne. That's so cool to see what else is things, what are coming up? There are a couple of other things with that were happening that I needed to mention and they've kind of Gone In and Out parts of my brain, which is a bit scary. Lots of things that are going on and coming up this week that was last see, course was

Last night, but you've got the poly, big discussion group on this Tuesday, should be a happening thing and bent to they of course, Friday night including Lance TV, which is always Sensational if and you can of course, you can watch that later, so you can go and see Kaitlyn honey, it cleanly and tomorrow in the and the dreams and then come home and watch it on delay support queer media. But we do need you to support radiothon because so many great shows freedom of species.

Coming up next, they'll be talking all things animal advocacy as they do so well. But I'm just, you know, I'm sitting here, you know, sort of just having a look. Let's say at the 3 CR website, we're going to do this at random, random two little coffee shop down the road from 3 CR know. We're doing it in the 3 CR Studios. Let's go to the program list and we'll go in because we can night owls. On Rhythm, protect presenting, Australian bands, playing blues and roots.

Aren't they rockabilly Western swing rock and roll Cajun music for any occasion Zydeco country. Country rock acts Tex-Mex the whole caboodle. So there's, there's a show that perhaps might not get a girl. A lot of Guernsey on country music stations in the city. Let's go to D. What have we got? We've Got Dirt radio Friends of the earth, campaigners - activist, dig deep down into the dirt on important environmental and social justice issues.

Whereas course the moment we're seeing so many environmental protesters being facing censorship and that they can't protest and big mining companies seem to get away with all sorts of shenanigans. Jailbreak Friday 10:30 to 11:00 music stories and poetry from the inside gives a voice to prison inmates families, friends, informational, criminal prison, and health issues, as well as connecting prisoners to the community through their poetry music and health messages.

And this just so much, great Radeon, 3 CR. So we need your support. You can hop onto 3C H website, 3, CR, dot org, dot a, you. And at the top where it says, support you can press donate, you can donate online, and you can specify the show you wish to support. Now, out of the pan has a radiothon target of 15 hundred dollars this year. So we need to get Quack and make like a duck and get quacking. If you've got that couple of bucks that you've just found down the back of the couch, please. Send it our way.

Why does it matter how big how small, two dollars or more tax deductible? Okay, thank you. Treasure at Charmers, we live? You and all that sort of thing because we really need to keep 3 CR going and at full strength and all the great shows there, we just sampled some of the few. Let's I'm going to sample. I'm going to sampling mood. Let's sample. Another one, it's time. We'll go to G and we have Greek resistance, bulletin move

From the social movements of Greece in English and Greek, the anti-fascist and anti-racist, front and news of actions and political initiatives. So, I mean there's there's there's another great program. I'm on a roll here. Let's keep it going. Earth matters, which is an hour before out of the pan on Sundays prior to out of the blue. The out of the blue at 11:30, the crew diving deep for marine use as they do every Sunday morning from 11:30 till noon and 11 to 11:30, Earth matters Global and local Environmental

The issues from Grassroots activists perspectives and that's also on the community radio network. So there's just a mountain of diverse programming here on 3 CR as part of community radio, one of the things that makes Melman. I think a good City at the Grassroots is community radio and there's lots of great stations. I give full credit to all the great Community stations but right now 3 CR needs your support. So please consider supporting us as we hit the peak of radiothon season.

In this coming week, finally got it. Right? All right thing that I've got to do, they do now is Make Way for freedom of species time for me to shift, aside from the pilots chair and make way for the crew. They'll all be in next week. The full range of humans presenting their radio van show, the rest of the lineup on Sunday afternoon or a few more shows Freedom species 1:59. Rotations who will be rotating in from 2 to 3.

It's a mystery. Make sure you tune in and find out and 3:57 querying the air with lots of great more queer news as part of 3C H, commitment to queer broadcasting as well. So, take it out today with a bit of an Australian song. It's a beautiful weekend here in Melbourne, / numb and this one. Just seemed appropriate ganga's, Yang. Sounds of then. Thanks for tuning in to out of the pan. I'm Sally Goldner. Catch you next week.
