Eat and Instagram at sell gold said, so, and you can now also blue sky. But some somewhere today, the mastodons have fallen off the computer, no matter what I type in, it's not coming up so no mastodons today. Not sure what's going on there, actually, the hopefully, the website has just come up. It just has. There you go. Not sure what's going on there. Me and Technology. Well, I'm going to touch on that in a second age, brackets. And what age can do,

Seriously it's so we've got all for now. Let's go through them again where you can get to at Sal gold said so and my create your own bottom line. You can do it on Mastered on Twitter on Instagram and on Blue Sky, which is apparently the sort of version of Twitter that I think Jack Dorsey & Co has started, which is sort of a cross with mastodons. And if you're wanting any more on technology and

Software. Don't ask me and you can also look on Facebook which is so old-school Now, isn't it? But that's me. I'm going to talk about that to out of the pan 3. CR 855 am Melbourne and my page on Facebook, Sally Gardner. Am you can also snail mail. Can't read it out today. Australia poster, pretty good, ninety-three percent plus, but they're not going to get it to me within the hour. I don't think PO Box 12

Don't think that's going to be too many content notes today, so I'll read them out if need and opened up today with John Farnham, in days to come. I think that's one of his most underrated songs. I just think it's so beautifully written and so powerful and they're sort of gospel type, huh?

Please do it for me. And well I'm decided to open with that one today because sometimes you wonder what's going to happen in the days to come, not because things, perhaps beyond your control, but wonder where your own life is. And it's something that I do reflect on in at times as someone, who is older and, you know, sort of, when I look at the whole context my life as well, and it I'm reminded of this because of Something that happened to me last night and today, it's only 9 minutes and 13 seconds before I mentioned wrestling. Now, why do I mention this as a little bitty kid to quite a child say that in an

Oklahoman accent to quote, to honor Jim Ross. Legendary commentator as a little, bitty kid, I did grow up watching world championship wrestling in Australia, North WCW in America and that's a different era and love the

I am loved loved it and was fascinated by it for whatever it was. And and and it fell away ended in 1978 at age 13. I just got rid of Jewish Sunday, school and six weeks later. They thought. Finally, I'll be able to watch the wrestling and then they took off boo, he's not appropriate at all bad. Programming Channel. 9 is much as World Series cricket was all right, it still wasn't the right thing, and lost track of it. Well,

Resting as it was then. Federation later to become entertainment, came back on Channel 10 in the 1985 at the time of the first WrestleMania. And then I lost that one off TV and I lost track of resting. Again, I couldn't afford the early Cable in that was around in Australia in the 90s. Don't think too many people. I don't know how people afford it and lost track of wrestling for a long time because of course, in or not, of course, in 1995 was, when I first heard the word,

As it was then transgender and

At that point obviously my mind became occupied with finding my authentic self first in gender identity then. Sexuality, then completing gender identity in their narrow Divergence and other things and kind of firm. What about things. And then one day in 2002, one night bored at home, I went down to something and may they rest in peace. Eight video store, later to become DVD stores and then later to disappear off the Face of the Earth and going to cyberspace with net streaming. I suppose and things like the WWE Network and others. But anyway, I wandered down to a video store and there was SummerSlam 2002 and wrestling reconnected and I went a few times during the naughties and the tens. And then gradually met lgbtiq a plus fans in wrestling but it's still in the particularly in the naughty seemed to be a very much oh thing.

Ng and thank you. Kayla Nehemiah. Mastodon has been D extinct. If I'd like my connection to wrestling, it's bat-eared bad back. Why am I saying? All this will come to it in a minute. There is a point to the story. The moral of the story and gradually reconnected and but didn't really reconnect with the local wrestling scene until post pandemic. And I'm going to give, thanks to my friend. Chris, who took me? Bought me a ticket to Melbourne City race.

About 18 months ago and along our went and Chris unfortunately, couldn't make it that first night due to the due to covert and did the right thing and stayed home and off. I went alone bit nerve-racking because my memories of wrestling growing up in this is the important thing here. Where have to use the language of this program cisgender men and very muscly and they soon must they must have been very athletic to do all that stuff which you do have to be. Of course,

I'm going to come to that. So there is this story is building the Fort Pickens anyway and much to my happy surprise five minutes before. The start of the show, there was a clip of wrestlers going. This is a safe place, will have no nonsense. Any harassment report it to our staff. Yay, which is really cool. And then up comes a slide. This show has been performed on the land of the coordinations and so things have changed but it can take a long time to realize that and

Two more and more events last year and more this year and I'm going to more and more again. Because if you follow me on social media, PT, you know, if you follow me on social media that you worked out, that I've actually got involved with a small promotion and I'm hoping to sort of do things like commentary and ring announcing and things like that. Yeah, I'm still to work through with the psychiatrist, my issues of microphone attachment

And why am I mentioning all this will last night. If you feeling wondering, if you thinking that voice is a bit husky today, yes, I cheated myself inside out for lots of reasons at an event, put on by another great promotion, Renegades of wrestling. Now, amazing stuff, it's not for everyone granted, but I had a ball, but as I've gone to more events, I've just found that people wrestling fans are like a big tribe and they don't care really who else who you are. If you respect wrestling, that's the cool thing. And if

We're respectful person. Great which isn't that what we all want? I suppose and it got me thinking about being your whole self because last night on the show were two wrestlers from America, Renegades of wrestling versus Game Changer wrestling. And their wrestler names are Ali catch Ka TCH Ali catch and Fe and both of whom are queer and who bring that into their outfits and their performance.

And open about it. And there was a whole heap of merchandise tables. Merch tables to use the highly technical term of wrestling, but the Queue at theirs was the longest and people with rainbow flags. And if you look on my Facebook page this morning and I'll get it on to the other media as soon as there's a picture of me with them and I know it's a said yeah, look I found resting to be very positive but in a way I haven't had to talk.

Bat, gender or sexuality on me with whatever I bring. And that's cool. Isn't that what we want? But I can't help feeling the most connected. I felt in sort of mind, body, and spirit in my entire life. After last night, I'm still floating down off a big high. And I've got me thinking that if you've got some, you know, what Britt, what really gets your authentic self going. If you identify as part of lgbtiq, i+ or Allied, what is it that mean brings you to?

Together as the whole person where you are, you know, sort of mind, body and spirit are all rocking it together. I'd just be curious to note because this really was just very moving last night, it was an amazing show not without its wrestling moments in a serious way. And it just goes to show that. I say this very seriously do not try it at home. There was a situation last night where something just went a bit of missile though. Everyone is fine. Physically particularly one competitor but

Some seriously, it was just an incredible feeling to bring two bits of me that I love and one that I lost and one that has been lost in the last couple of years, which I'm going to talk about in the next segment which may need a Content node. So yeah, what happens when you sort of put two and two together, the X accountant in me says can it be 5 will find out. Anyway let's have a listen after opening up with John Farnham.

To The Who and well, if you can be your authentic self. You you better, you better. You

He's coming in a bitch. I've got some technical issues today, which is annoying.

3 CR 855 am 3 CR Digital 3, CR dot org, dot Tau 3 CR on demand out of the pan with Sally first broadcasting known through one every Sunday afternoon. Thanks for your company. And we're talking today bit about the authentic self and what that might mean it could obviously could mean slightly different things about 8 billion ways because we're all unique and is Oscar Wilde said

And be yourself. Everyone else is taken or something like that, and you've got to find it. Sometimes you don't get to it immediately. And this comes in two parts, it's sort of your percent parts of your identity such as gender identity. Sexuality, neurodivergent is for myself, and, for other people, it could be that, maybe they can't be there, don't feel safe to be their cultural background, or their faith given who they are, and where they are, and that's an important factor. And the other part then is, what

You know, you want to do with your time, you know, it seems like is your career, a part of your identity. I mean, obviously there's overlap, we don't believe in binaries on this program, but it can take a long time before you get to your authentic self. And if you're an older queer, which I am, as I was sort of big energy hint at in the first segment, it can, and to bring all the parts together. It's quite enormous. And as I say last night at the event, put on, by Renegades of rest.

They were two wonderful queer wrestlers on Ellie catch and Fe and just to meet them and see them and see some of the stuff they did in their matches, along with other competitors who are all up for it quite just quite amazing. I just haven't felt that way in a while. I've been unfortunately, due to some issues within the queer Community. One part there in feeling a little bit.

It whilst I'm okay about how am I felt disconnected from community. And to get both parts together last night. Thanks to those two. People was, was I don't for once. There's a radio commentator, I'm trying hard to find words. And they're not quite there because it's still processing. It's was quite remarkable. As I said, a lot of queer. People felt the same huge queues for their merchandise. I now have a fan that says wrestling is gay, which will be very useful.

Full in the summer as we head up towards it. Is warming up, thankfully here in nah. So that's really really welcome. But, you know, it's also, you know, you has to be safe to be your authentic self, and sometimes you can't be, and sometimes it takes ages to find all the parts of your authentic self if they get buried, if you are someone who's older and, you know, you life went effectively through no fault of your own off. Course, it's can be

Occult to get it back on course, and sort of dig through the layers that were piled on top of the gold, so to speak and what was shoved on top. So, welcome your thoughts on that, you know, sort of what is it that makes you feel authentic, you know, in terms of yourself and, you know, sort of that in all parts. Let's go on with some other news quickly in

Ninth time, this one from Star Observer and I find this, you know, there's a couple of issues in this story and this is where I'll raise content note for sure. Because we do have to mention in my opinion, transphobic attitudes. This one, the headline, if you're looking for it, I'll type the headline into the podcast link podcast, but I won't put the link in August 21st. So earlier in

The week Melbourne and on this is where I say content, no Melbourne group applies, for exemption to hold inverted commas, lesbians born, female only event. Now, if that were to hold that on private property, yeah, that's suppose. Now that's one thing. But they want to hold this at the pride center. Now way, back in July 2017, there was a consultation for the pride Center was built and these people of these views I'm trying.

Keep this is balanced and diplomatic as I can write. In comments about wondering whether the pride Center, this is a quote content. No. Transphobia would be safe for quote women, born women. And I still remember six and a bit years on the looks of fear on the face of trans people, but also parents of younger trans people that this would happen. So these two angles to this, there is the Newly formed so-called lesbian action group Melbourne and I say so-called that's the name in here, I'll apologize if that's not appropriate to say so called, and they wanted to born, they want to organize a lesbians born, female only event to celebrate International lesbian day in October that days on the 8th of October. They want to do it a week later, and they want to exclude heterosexual bisexual and gay males.

Ha sexual and bisexual females, transgender people in queer plus people, okay. So what happens, you know, if you are, I don't use my language here, someone assigned, female, and you as so many people did started out thinking all you could be was heterosexual. You got into a relationship, the mail, maybe you were intimate with that male. Can you come, you know, is that going to be policed? Does that make you bisexual? What happens if you now assist about a cisgender woman in a relationship,

It with another system to woman but you've been with a man, whatever, how's it going to police that quite bizarre and so the Australian Human Rights Commission can grant temporary exemptions from anti-discrimination law for up to five years and this group had a exemption under Victorian law for Less Fest in 2004 that was subsequently revoked. And the organization has said it was set up to promote an

Events for lesbian born, females, without the fear of being hauled before the Victorian civil, and administrative tribunal, as we've had in the past and I've told her exclusive lesbian, born events are illegal and having to cancel them or you have them on private property. You know you can do that. Yeah. No one's stopping you doing that. And they've had, they were able to organize private meetings over the last 20 years.

Ears says their application. They also then go onto the ledge and I'm, this is an inverted commas in the article. Lesbians you public did speak out about lesbian rights are sacked from their jobs, ridiculed and threatened with all kinds of abuse. Hmm. So trans. People are called all sorts of horrible things, by these people that we told we don't effectively told, we don't know our own lives and we're still men. If you are a trans woman, like myself, did it done now you

And if you are interested and today being the 27th of August, you can by Tuesday the 29th of August so two days from time of broadcast. So sorry if you're listening later on podcast or on demand or the repeat. But maybe if you're listening at 5:00 on Wednesday, on the repeat doesn't they'll accept a slightly late one, but you can make a submission from the public for this and I have done. So

So and if you look at the, the table of the The actual submission from this lesbian action group, it I feel there's a bit of a problem there that they say that they want events that will quote and I'm just going to bring this up but they say will benefit the lesbian Community as a whole. Well, this type of lesbians, okay, maybe they have a right to have their Viewpoint, you can debate that one back and forth but don't say that they speak for the

In communities hall because in my 28 years of being out, I found the vast majority of lesbians and I'd be willing to put it as high as 80 or 90%, who I've met a highly supportive of diversity, including trans women, and for myself as a by person biped, when I frankly, I don't know if you'll be offended on, but I feel concerned and defended on both counts that they can this group claims to speak for other people and excludes other people, the way.

Way they do. And it's interesting that this sort of grip always wants to be, it's called separatists, but then when they want to come and use the pride Center, this suddenly want to be part of the community. I question. So there's a question to ask and I think given the the attacks on the queer community, of course, the majority seem to be on trans people at the moment, but some extent by is under attack. If you look at what some of these people are doing, I find this quite Disconcerting. And there's an issue of safety. Of course. There is where someone's been violated, it's understandable, they can be fearful, the emotion can clog, clog you up but the solution is not for one group to take out their fears on another minority group. The answer is that everyone needs to stand up against the real source of the problem which is badly behaved cisgender, men, and toxic men, the behavior that is toxic masculinity, rather.

Than this approach that sort of victim blames trans people and twist things around. So, the you can write to an email, some medium fashion Tech as opposed to old or new legal at humanrights.gov. Do a you. If you've got some thoughts about this love you know, if you've got some thoughts for me right now, pop them in viral the means of communication otherwise. Yeah, if you

Write a submission, send it in to that email address. It says by Tuesday 29, August. I presume. That's close of business 5:00 but it may be midnight. And if the if the if they're nice, you can you pop it in at six by six o'clock on Wednesday morning, if you listen to the repeat of this program, then that's awesomeness. All right, let's have a listen now to attract that I've dug out from way back when somewhere.

And juggling things around. This one is a remix of Deborah Conway. The subtract that Deborah Conway sang with in the 80s with Wicked, beat sound system and Man Overboard. I'm sure there's something fraud, you know, how I placed that in the running order today.

Yeah, don't throw me overboard. Some is lots of nice men out there 3. CR 855 am 3 CR Digital 3, CR dot org, dot U 3 CR on demand out of the pan with Sally.

Attended someone's gone overboard? No, the CD players gone overboard. The buttons are gone overboard. Who knows?

It's 3. CR 855 am 3 CR Digital 3, CR dot org, dot Tau 3 CR on demand out of the pan with Sally. If anything has been setting on the show, you can always call Q Life which includes switchboard in Victoria and Tasmania 1-800 184.

Five to seven or rainbow door one, eight hundred seven to nine three six seven are the numbers also for SMS and Family Violence, if you need those as well around. So yeah,

Couple of themes. Running today, as I said, I'm in the last segment, we're talking about the situation of of some sort of so-called lesbian own events. But the other thing I wanted to mention was and this one goes back a couple of years. Now, we're by the consultation for the pride Center had, in my opinion was not, well run at all, and

There were letters written in and I just don't believe that the private my opinion is that the pride Center cannot hold this event. Now where does that end? Yeah, let's look at this carefully. As calm as we can given the is emotion involved. Do you say? Oh, well, some people of Islamic backgrounds are terrorists. So we can't have an Islamic queer group at the pride Center,

We wouldn't allow that sort of thinking, God forbid, even for big whatever. So how do we have this? Do we set all the people can hold their event. So long as they don't distress anyone else? Well, no one should be distressing anyone and no one should even be think that they are. So I think this is going to be a bit of a crunch time for the pride Center if you know this event, you know? If the so let's go through this there's an application for exemption if the exemption, you know,

Happens. Or if it, you know, if it does, if it doesn't, if the exemption is not granted and the group lesbian action, group cannot hold an event for what they call. Lesbian born females then they probably won't have it at the pride Center would be my guess, but yeah, the question therefore eyes. As if they get the exemption and it goes ahead can the pride Center in good conscience. Host this. I'd like to hear what people

Think on that one as well. Given that the pride Center has never apologized for the unsafe consultation six years ago where there was transphobia non-binary for Asia, ableism, racism neurotypical ality and now I have to say I've heard over time varying reports of how the pride Center does on diversity. Some say it's doing all right, some say it's not and you know I can't

Speak. Of course for people will wear, it's not my background, but Pride Center is really going to its granted. It's a difficult one to be fair, but they're going to have to work through this. But personally I just struggle with the idea that this sort of event can happen. But yeah, coming back to the other theme of today, authentic self. It's, it is ideal. When you can be all of your authentic self, but there's lots of things that can stop you from being that sometimes, if you're a more

Creative person in. What I'll call an industrialized predominantly capitalist Society. Do you fit in? You know, sort of so many creative people, musicians, sculptors whatever, find it hard to get in and it's not right. That you have to then do something that you're not as good at and be perhaps less healthy and less authentic by having to do the proverbial day job. Just because an economic system says, so an economic system is a constant

On Strat, you'll love and there's lots of debate about those isn't there? You know, why don't we have a better distribution of resources? So people can be more themselves and just shoving people into 925 office or factory or whatever jobs farm jobs that are not going to suit. People is not really a good thing and I think that industrialization and Technical technological ization. I said that after only one coffee I'm impressed.

Stand. I don't impress easy Monsoon. There is another wrestling reference for the day with 13 minutes to go. I spaced them out. One at about 13 minutes in and one about 13 minutes to go. Yeah. Interesting thoughts. So yeah, it's difficult to be your authentic self when you can be it it's a magical feeling brings you together like no weight and all the way before I still remember, it's nearly ten years ago, 2014, the first Pride should but

Service in Melbourne, where I read a little bit of the service as my authentic self and all my culture and cultural background. Some extent, my faith background all clicked in together, like it hadn't really done before. So it's really important where you can be yourself and bring it all out there and better still give put it out there. So in a way that's appreciated by part of society, and as I said last night at this wrestling event, there were just so many queer.

Fans queer Flags, there. It was absolutely, you know, of a sort of, just such a big thing, coming back to our topic today and Kayleen has messaged in, what about lesbians have assaulted by women or lesbians, this is a great Point Kayleen that, you know, you want to save space. But you know how these people how the organizers of this event going to be of to

You know, sort of people, one person turns up, who is a perpetrator and one person said been on the receiving end and it can't, it can't often is in queer relationships that it's not as all nothing that is. It is where a heterosexual cisgender male violates a heterosexual, cisgender female. So this is a great Point Kayleen. How will it be safe? Then, you know, the organizers thought of that of this event that they want for their particular?

Ocular sense of self. Great question. And, you know, it just goes to show that this sort of biological so-called biological essentialism approach, which, of course, is not biological because that then denies that the possibility that trans is biological. And of course, it doesn't matter. Whether it's biological whether it's so-called nature or nurture, the main thing is to treat people with respect individually and in how you act interact with each other. So,

The application has a lot of false equivalence has is Kayleen's just messaged in. Yeah, I'd agree with that to Kayleen. There's a lot of it. If you start reading it carefully, it just doesn't make sense and it should be noted as going back to the star Observer article that an application for a similar sort of event in November last year in Tasmania. Hello to, if you're listening in Tasmania with the Tasmanian that civil and administrative tribunal, tatters cat, that sounds like a superhero or something.

Said there was no justification to Grant an application that, you know, would do a similar sort of approach and sort of the Taz cat said, at the time, the applicants may not wish to comply with the act and find some aspects of its application, to hold trans women to applet, trans women books, and in particular in the context of them and they would like to hold, that is not a sufficient.

In justification for granting the exemption, and the task at finding at the time, on that application said that the ideas of excluding trans people were unsupported by Empirical research or compelling evidence. Well, gee, I think about a hundred percent of trans people in the world and our allies could have told you that it's very true, though, the wider public interest would not be Advanced by yielding to such arguments when consider the public,

The current application. I agree with that too. And I hope that the national tribunal perhaps takes that into account would be my hope.
