Lots of things to discuss on the show today. Going to look at an article that came up to sort of touches on to the area of pinkwashing, which I know you can be controversial. One, that's sort of needs to get debated, but I think it would be also have some catchup from when I was in last week. I'm not in last week. I beg your pardon, and I want our wonderful, because our listeners and 3 CR, of course, never has regular listeners. We just have awesome ones. And I've got comments from Jenny and roving reporter to look at.

However, I think it's impossible to not this week look at the social media ban and the effects on queers. How has this come about the whole caboodle as best as I can from my perspectives and knowledge and look at it from a queer perspective. And there's been a couple of good articles around on this that have been of relevance and I wanted to just sort of go through those because I think they've been sort of that they're written by young queer people. One of which is from six media is one of the ones that came up and just trying to bring it up. Has we had lib live because we're how I'm just having a few laptop issues which are always fun, but I think that, you know, I really I've heard, you know, the are a lot of the arguments and I just cannot agree with this ban. Here we go. Here's one yesterday from the Saturday paper, and this is the one by the article by Maggie Perry, from six media on and directly goes to my heart. How the how the social media ban harms children, and by 6:00 news reporter Maggie Perry who write starts her article. So it starts the article. I'll get to pronouns in a second. Very hard to be a trance fifteen-year-old in central, Queensland friends, and her nose at 6:00 news, have been there every step of the way. And interestingly, two years ago, p.m. Albanese, he labeled 6 News headed by then fourteen-year-old, Leonardo, pull easy, a fantastic initiative.

And then Maggie goes on to right now Labour's. Very own legislation, Leo and every child under 16 including me would be blocked from using almost every social media application. And, you know, sort of sorry. Maggie goes on to say that rural communities would be disadvantaged particularly if they're in small conservative communities. Yep. And we know that for both generally for queer, people has been and

With varying degrees in issue. Now, sort of social media has emerged as a Lifeline for the socially axis exiled, you know, sort of and, you know, it's Maggie. Also goes on to say, many rely on. Social media is a safe space. I have friends yet to come out to heavily religious, or conservative families, gives people social support. And Maggie has said,

Said, quote, I've content note mention of abuse, quote, I've heard stories of kids in Suburban Sydney, who would likely suffer abuse at the hands of their Partners if they're non-heterosexual identity was to be uncovered others. You may be accepted at home, suffer harassment and discrimination at school working on the streets. This is not you. So why should the government let down the most vulnerable and most disadvantaged? Why would the government remove the only safe space? That thousands of Children at Risk depend upon so desperately

Support, make it goes on to say, this isn't to deny that social media account can be a significant mental hindrance in terms of body image, and then gets the guts of it. The problem lies in the fact that labor, rather than to, rather than attempting to tackle the negatives of social media. Through education and government funded, programs has taken the easiest Sledgehammer solution of a blanket ban for under 16's. Effectively wiping out support groups for the young and isolated.

So and then goes on to say Labor's continuous attempts to appeal. So the two supposedly popular ideas without much practical consideration or assessment mean it is missed. The fact that this band will not only have significant social effects but hamper. The young ability of young people to learn the skills that come fully with you fully using the internet, which are vital for the future Fern in terms of employment and other things. So, and

And there's going to be a divide in terms of technological skills reiterates, popular support approach. And a sort of this off course, the debate about, whether we'll have to hand over documents, which I'll come back to in a second, what a reasonable steps to verifying someone's age. And if the labor party party room can't work, how we're going to enforce this in terms of documents how the hell's it going to work which I also want to come back to? Yeah.

The now sort of bill has now got through and there's lots of implications of it and including some personal ones well-written Maggie. I would, as a say, I agree with pretty much everything. You've said there and some thoughts that I hadn't had I hadn't thought about the economic skills. One, that's a very, very good one indeed. Well, well, thought out,

And, you know, I just, I can't agree with this from a queer perspective, which is what this shows about. As I agree with that, it's a sledgehammer, you know, and it's sort of a very blunt instrument approach that I don't think is the answer and misses out on the benefits for lots of people. And I'm, you know, I'm, I'm not affected directly in this way, but I think,

I think people with various forms of disability, physical mental health, various forms of neurodivergent, would be oval face negative effects from this legislation. But I also, you know, I was thinking about my own story, you know, someone who didn't come out until I was 29 and didn't have access to end there. Obviously wasn't internet back then, but couldn't get information.

And now I'm still uncovering beliefs, as a person that have hindered me all my life at 59 and so the longer it takes to come out first. Let's say in terms of I'll just stick to gender identity expression and sexual romantic orientation because variation of sex characteristics, isn't my experience and there are, I think differences for variation of sex characteristics. Longer it takes the more of this backlog.

It's there. It's harder when it comes out because it's like a big you know sort of well volcano of emotion that blows itself up in your face. And I just think this is really, really disastrous and you know I wish I had been able to come out earlier. I can't change my life. I don't get to sort of you know, sort of

Instead of ice occasionally, do get sad and frustrated that I sometimes feel that my life wasn't what it could have been. And, you know, I just think like this is a backward step and the fact that people will have to wait, 16, you may have to wait 16 years to get to their real life to have that backlog of emotion out of formative time because these beliefs have dug in deep. They've

Acted me. I've never had a chance to look them because first, I had to deal with gender identity and expression. And do you have to do I have surgery or not? And then sexual and romantic orientation. And then neurodivergent sat this, got buried under these beliefs, I had as a person about myself, which I'm still very raw or about it. The moment of won't discuss got buried. And I've mentioned that I haven't been well in the program, I am struggling with mental health because of this. So here you have at least one case

It's my case, amongst all the queries, and I know there are others who are probably in the same boat, who are suffering from, what I'll call, Barry trauma, whether more to do as a person and perhaps the coming out type of stuff and I just think this is a hugely backward, step, I'm going to have a breather. They're all I've got another article on it from the conversation, from a trans perspective, and other things. But you know, hopefully,

Well, we opened up today with Wendy Rule and the rattlesnake. We need the rattlesnakes wisdom, in my opinion. Let's have another track. Now, this one is in honor of the fact that it is Don Walker's birthday on Friday from cultures or here's a solo track from one of the album's he put out with his band catfish. It's a well hopefully we'll find something to smile about even if a smile is crooked, crooked smile from Catfish 3, CR 855.

Thanks for your company or whether that is an original program or repeat. We just heard from Catfish in honor of Don Walker's birthday. Crooked smile and happy birthday Legend. I started watching like she got through the documentary on Cold Chisel.

Experience or most of it. They're all of last night when they talked about lots of stuff. And some interesting things particularly well, the well known problems with the American record company, but some details, I hadn't really heard you go. Yep. Lots of things to discuss on the show today and I forgot to thank the crew from out of the blue diving deep for the Marine news as they do every Sunday From 11:30, till noon, always lots of important information on that one.

And what found the other article I wanted to talk about which is from the conversation entitled to strap in trans youth are already amongst Australia's marginal. Most marginalized people are social media. Ban could make this worse, this is published by Anna hickey, Moody. Who's a professor of intersection or Humanities at Maynooth, National University of Ireland and Lizzie morn research assistant at Uni South

Australia, not sure if they ages but they start this article with the quote from someone called Sam Caitlin, and Leah, social media famous in a couple first time I'd seen representation and positive way, because my dad was so conservative about it, I saw a happy couple together and I was like this is actually this actually doesn't seem like the terrible thing. I'm told it is, you know. So this is sort of an interviewing this Trans teen and they re-emphasize the role the specific and much-needed role in the lives of Australia's trans youth. They talk about the mental health disparity, which is due to discrimination, and they talked about Sam's upbringing and religion telling them that being gay was a sin. No formal education about transgender and they found out stuff on Instagram.

So you know, this is the thing that, you know, very few things are all or nothing and this Sledgehammer approach has taken away the good as well as the bad. And so Sam's story is one of just several examples that emerged from their research and now the government's legislation. Well it says, it will prevent with it. I'm going to say will try to prevent under-16s from creating accounts on sites such as insta, Snapchat and Tick-Tock and which part which

Platforms, will be included. Know what's to stop worse platforms? That, you know, are even more risky and people going there or finding their way around it. One person who when I, you know, sort of, I'll say gently vented to this an older person said, younger people are Adept at finding their ways around technology. I still check the fax machine every morning in case something is coming. No, that's not true. I don't have a fax machine but you know, maybe they are

Sort of this article then goes on to say the band's feasibility has also been challenged as young people will find workarounds to continue accessing them. There's been talk about whether it's unconstitutional unconstitutional as that as Daffy. Duck, I think or Bugs Bunny. Once said I chose, I'm not a youth now at that sort of thing. Yeah. Now because it would could stop freedom of political expression. So,

Now, I this I just can't agree with this, but the question then if it's, there's so many logical arguments. Why has it gone on? Well, that's where we get into the illogicality is of politics. And, you know what, this seems to come down to is that traditional media who are worried about the threat of social media, particularly with younger people, being more Adept, not believing the what they see, as the Malarkey, put out by mainstream commercial media in particular, I found there,

Platform. So hey let's cut young people off from social media, they'll might have to read our garbage or not. Get anything else. Gee that's in interests of media. No wonder the Liberal Party supported it, because younger people tend to be more Progressive. So, that means, they'll have less access to Progressive information. But or theoretically, but the out someone once said, I remember there was a piece of research on young people, 15 years ago, where our very youngest person preteen said

We know what they're not telling us. So I think they will find a way around it and I just think this is window, dressing, it's not clear how it's enforceable is my thought, you know, you know, how can you be forced to hand over something like a driver's license? What happens if you don't have a driver's license? And obviously most under 16's. What I think most under sixteen twenty now you're going to verify

Will the government sort of key card thing or whatever it's called work? I don't know. Yeah, lot, welcome. Your thoughts and we have some here, the fabulous roving reporters, come in and said it's a complex issue where I've sadly seen bullying in queer circles as well friends. Grandparents were newly arrived migrants who experienced extreme bullying, the conservative 53, to the seventies, and they survive with no help at all with a no racial protection laws and they do survive.

Despite the trauma and still suffered to this doll. Come back to that. Why can't parents that better skills to protect their kids bullying still occurs in the plate by ground especially with class. I think this decision is purely political and there's a reason why Australia is the only country to pass it. Roving reporter? Yeah. Well now I agree that. Yeah. Like yes, it's nice that you survived despite from a wouldn't be nice if we can prevent it I suppose it's my first thought the school the school yard one. I mean you know the research

Sighs to my knowledge that that's unsafe. Most unsafe place for queer kids is school. So what? We're going to not send secure, let's not get into kids to school. Oh no, we can't do that. And that word I think is worth something else comes in. I think there's a huge degree of paternalism and you know, patriarchy patriarchy going on here, controlling women and controlling children, as elements of men try to control women. I think that's a fact.

You're in it as well. And the conservative right Catholic Rite of the Alp, must have some part in this and I'd be interested if you're willing to come back roving, a reason. Why strata is the only country to do it, is it? I'm just going to say if you're willing to respond, I'd love to have your response back in. You know, I also have to say that I'm disappointed that any out queer politician in the federal Parliament could have voted for. It was interesting. When it got to the Senate Penny Wong, didn't happen to be in the chamber.

Not that her record on supporting queer stuff. Is that great? Which I've think I've discussed in my opinion on this show, before I think she's very good in terms of Foreign Relations, but as someone who known, you don't not every career politician has to be queer supportive, but suppose she wanted to win powder, very disappointed. See one prominent Progressive. Queer politician in the chamber, voting for it. I'm not going to name names. I don't see a point but I think that's really sad.

Sad. And I'm going to say this, I think that sad as it is to say somewhere the politicians who voted for, it will have some queer young blood on their hands. Big comment, not often get that intense. But I think this is not the right thing to do. It's just political gutless nurse against big powers of mainstream dying mainstream media and just shows perhaps some how mainstream media is? So unhealthy.

Full in this country. All right and yeah, leave it. Leave that one there unless there's more comments coming in on it, I'll come back to comments from roving last week and also look at some pinkwashing also an issue that Jenny raised whilst I wasn't in last week, but a certain movie has hit your streaming services. I'm Rockton to give too much promotion. I'm pretty sure it's Binge, but that's the based on the classic Paul Kelly song, how to make gravy. So that's hit actually today. There's an excuse to play that song and as we head into the Silly Season as it's sometimes called but also a season of celebration for some as well. Here's Paul Kelly 3 CR 855 am 3 CR Digital 3, CR dot org dot are you 3 CR on demand out of the pan with Sally.

Out of the pan with Sally. First broadcasting known through one every Sunday afternoon. Thanks for your company and we just heard from Paul Kelly for the original. That is the original single on one of those funny CD things how to make gravy. And from way back 1996, nearly 30 years on, still a classic piece of music and yes watch out for the movie that you can stream coming soon. What did to mention that earlier? I played the promo for brainwaves and of course Tuesday the 3rd of December is International Day of people with disability with a disability or disabilities. And in that light

3 CR, of course we'll have a day off, special programming. So tune in for that from 7, a.m. to 7 p.m. and enjoy some great thoughtful, programming, come back to that as also wanted to mention that, of course, if we're talking custody on Monday, afternoons, 3 CR, has the long-running show doing time.

It's 4:00, if I'm trying to look at it across the studio with me specs on. I'm not succeeding, but I'm pretty damn sure. It's 4:00 with all the wonderful 3, CR programmers, putting in lots of great programs. We're sort of beginning to get to Summer programming. I'll be certainly off from the 29th of December, so, but I don't think I'll be on the 22nd either, so why don't you be one more Live program?

And for the year wanted to sort of had lots of messages, I might just do those first. Roving has come back into me saying that the Amnesty International report sums up his views. I haven't quite

And this report says in part and I'll pop a link into this, a total ban would put the burden of Hump companies, harmful compliance practice on young people, instead of the companies causing the harm removing the benefits at social media. Bring will not only achieve will not achieve the government's objectives of improving people's lives, and ignores the fact that the harms extend beyond children and young people to marginalize, people and groups best way to protect children's, by protecting, all users with stronger data protection laws, and not prime personalizing Foods based on profile.

No doubt that the practices of social media platforms are harming young people's rights. But young people have a right to express themselves online, and seek information, social media offers children and young people benefits such as inclusion, social connections sense of belonging also, which can support their mental health, bang on roving and Amnesty International. So, yeah, very, very strange scenario. They're coming back to your messages last week when I wasn't in and had a repeat on.

The ban at Capitol Hill, I'm referring to sort of trying to get new, the fat newly-elected Delaware, Democrat in the House of Representatives, Sarah McBride, a trans woman to use men's bathrooms. Look, plenty. I did see that. And you know, I look diversion tactics, the sort of hate tactics that the conservative and far right? And to do fascists because I will not those and

Fascists, some are trying to enforce their sort of

And interesting that Sarah McBride tactics. I think a quite sensible. She was not elected to fight about bathrooms. I'm here to fight for delawareans and bring down costs facing families. She said she'd follow the new regulations from the speaker even if she disagreed with them and this is an effort to distract the real issues facing this country. This sorry, this effort to distract from the real issues facing this country hasn't distracted. Me and

Sort of other people have been stronger in their rebukes rebukes of the idea that about which bathroom McBride should use and others have accused, the speaker of bullying, a fellow member of Congress. So that and as one person Democratic leader, Hakeem Jeffries has said quote, this is your priority that you want to bully a member of Congress.

Opposed to welcome you to join this body. So all this can work together to get things done and deliver Real Results for American people. Yep. That's a fair call. And there's Now sort of another article you've popped in here as well. Yeah, I agree. It's just, you know, rhetoric diversion tactics, you know, dump on a minority and, you know, I'm not an expert on ideological Theory, you know, sort of but I would,

You know, agree that, you know, scapegoating minorities, you know, usually something that far right people try to do and the Democratic state representative, Zoe Zoe Zephyr who's a trans woman has also weighed in on this debate. And now it's sort of and it's just part of General hate. So, that's certainly an issue. Now, the other male of various sorts

What some correspondence in words that we had last week was Jenny wrote in and asked about the latest news on. Well, the person who Sam Hibbins, who was elected as member for puran in 2022, in the state Parliament and is now completely resigned from Parliament as well as the grains. After more news broke and Jenny's,

Said you know, we need to hold Progressive people to the same standards of behavior. Well, that's true. They need to be held to and in all needs to be enforced and you know, Sam humans is done, what is, you know, well, he did the wrong thing and by resigning, he's done the right thing. For everyone's sake, himself, principal green Parliament etcetera. But it's interesting. You know, when someone like Donald Trump or others sent others get Away with it, more conservative cisgender cisgender males, then that's you know, sort of Are We holding people, you know, we're we're trying to hold them to standards but they're not getting away with it, which of course is different questions. And now I think that we need to sort of try to keep enforcing

You know, set of better standards. So, yeah, what else is new? Couple more messages and roving. Come in saying a whole new can select it Casey. And looking forward to more queer event at bundle place, including queer film and drag performances at someone staged festival. And it's good training for staff and security there and you pop the link in four buckle.

Place. Which I was at back on Idaho, birthday this year, which was really, really good. A lovely Place, indeed, what else? Yeah, I was going to do an article on pinkwashing and I will long-standing experienced writer, Steve. Dow has come in with an article called queering the pitch.

And he talks about Sydney's Q. Topia, Centre, which memorializes Prejudice and violence against queer. And trans people, should it except philanthropic of philanthropy from the murdochs? And so, and it's sort of this is where police held protesters at the first Mardi Gras. Which remember, was not a right, not a sequined color.

Bird commercialized event and people can walk into these cells and there's an apology from New South Wales police that plays on a loop and you can now see cabaret shows there. So is it a sort of? I'm not sure if it's a some sort of equivalent to the pride Center in st. Kilda and Sarah Murdoch wife of media, Baron Rupert Murdoch's chosen. Her Lachlan announced that the couple

What donating 1 million is the founding partners and and there's sort of and help she said to help realize the vision of the light immunologist Professor David Cooper who worked at the adjacent Vincent's hospital and to remember those killed by HIV and AIDS. Q, Topia would be quote, a place that will tell the long history of battles fought for equality enthused face in the morning, son.

No, no, she clarified for basic rights for the queer Community. A place to educate and break down barriers of discrimination ignorance. A safe place for the ground people grappling, with our identity place that will celebrate a rich history that has not been fully told or appreciated and Steve Dale rights as a queer man. I was gobsmacked Lachlan would prefer money for queer history and art. Sort of, in wonder if it was simply a case that problematic funding is channeled everywhere in the Arts Channel Through Casino fossils, Etc. And then he goes on to Say he's more cynical journalistic self will light it on pinkwashing and Ian Roberts has sort of, you know, sort of supported it. But one cuter be a visitor in the visitors book says, Murdock money is blood money and they're vilified our community for decades and this comes down to the debate that we need to have. And you know when you consider what Murdock has done particularly

Lee. Well, for all of lgbtiq overtime at the emphasis might have shifted to various parts of it, but now, I, it does feel complex people say, oh look, they're working with us. They're giving us money but if they changed. No. So yes, the blood money, we type of language. Pinkwashing language is now sort of very much there and you know, sort of many other

And then there's other lots of transphobia. Lots of why did was it necessary to take the money if it's it's only 15 percent of funds that were raised. So there's you know there's you know debates on this. Do we take it? Are we better off for it? Can we live without it? I don't know. Is it were you know does principle matter all those sorts of things?

Things need to come into it, let's have some more music. I was out Friday week ago and saw one of my favorite bands and they did a great job along with two other bands. So I'll mention quickly after I play this track Caitlin, huh? Net in the Pony boys? And this is from their second album called all night long and well hopefully will now we can all do it. Its tracks called I'll get by 3 CR 855 m 3 CR Digital 3, CR dot org Dot u 3 CR on demand out of the pan with Sally.

Hi, I'm Leroy McQueen and you listening to 3 CR.

Tracy, I'd 55 am 3 CR Digital 3, CR dot org, dot U 3 CR on demand out of the pan with Sally first broadcasting known through one every Sunday afternoon, or most there of one way, or another. Thanks for your company and we just heard from All Night Long. The album second album from Caitlin Harnett and the Pony boys and I'll get by. Okay. Caitlyn and band. Well, rock it out, country in out. Playin hard call it what you will Friday, we could go down at the Northcote Social Club great to be there along with two other great bands as well, great artists and want to give them a mentioned because they were both really, really good. And I'm just going to get the names right as we bring up my album. My photo that tells me how the when the or on what to think, Mika James and band were great as well with great guitar and vocals and Annie Rose Maloney much the same great to see. Good stuff. There, some great guitar work and Kaitlyn. Where did you get your outfit? I always thought it was snazzy. Western EU groovy, whatever.

Freedom of species is on at 1:00. And Nick is presenting the show today and we'll have a GU East and Ruby Ramsden will be on the show just and they'll be dead. And the discussion will be about her research on veganism in Japan. Always lots of great information on freedom of species at 1:00, every Sunday afternoon rotations to queering the air at three just want for a couple of other round round up the points as we go.

We are, of course, in the period, which looks at gendered violence, and yes, there is element whether it's violence. Certainly harassment is no somewhere in the ballpark and it's not acceptable is the main thing but of course, the I think if, you know, and we certainly need to look at it, but gendered is not just men identify onto women identifying, of course. It's you know, masculine to feminine.

It can be toxic masculinity can be a behavior that anyone can do. It can be neurotypical onto neurodivergent, in many cases. All those sorts of things, and we need to look at harassment. Discrimination has power imbalances. In many ways, would just be a quick thought as we talked about that during this time. Next Saturday, next third coming, this Thursday and Saturday blight and self-promotion come,

Into Christmas fight night at pipe Works in Thomas town, where yours truly will be doing wrestling commentary and then again Saturday for the shows at pipeworks noon on Saturday for the lunchtime show, Alka energy, not sure if I'm on the evening show, yet to check in with the boss. So I'll see me there. The first two shows are free. There's payment for the Saturday evening one and of course, for wrestling fans, hope you're if you've got Near on the show today, and the other ear and eyes excusing. Any ableism on Survivor series War Games will loo excitement, but it doesn't glorify War. It's just good, unwholesome clean. Fun is Daffy Duck. Once said I'd better hurry up here and make way for freedom of species take it out today with a bit of stars and we could all do with some of this. A little Heaven. 3, CR, thanks for joining me on the show today on 3, CR, and catch it next week or the week after.
